

Beth Campbell Duke

Speaker & Educator | Patient & Care Partner Advocate

Beth Campbell Duke is a family care partner, educator, and the founder of Navigating Healthcare Canada. She currently provides care for her husband, who lives with complex chronic conditions, and her elderly parents, including one with dementia.

Before becoming a full-time caregiver, Beth worked as a research technician and regulatory affairs officer in biotech, and later as a high school science teacher. This unusual combination shapes her approach to caregiving: she understands both the logic of complex systems and the art of making information usable for real people under real pressure.

SPEAKING TOPICS

- ✓ When Information Doesn't Inform: What Care Partners Need

Best for: Family caregiver podcasts, patient advocacy platforms

- ✓ The New Work of Patients and Care Partners

Best for: Medical professional audiences, patient safety podcasts, healthcare quality programs

- ✓ Designing With Us, Not For Us: Why Healthcare Innovation Needs Care Partners at the Table

Best for: Healthcare innovation podcasts, medical technology audiences, MBA and entrepreneurship programs

Read more:

NavigatingHealthcare.ca/speaking-topics

Book Beth

To schedule an interview or inquire about speaking opportunities:

 NavigatingHealthcare.ca

 Beth@NavigatingHealthcare.ca

Beth is available for virtual podcast interviews and webinars. She welcomes conversations with shows focused on family caregiving, patient safety, healthcare innovation, and the future of patient-centered care.